About ESOT

The European Society for Organ Transplantation (ESOT) is a scientific society involved in all aspects of transplantation across Europe. It is the umbrella organisation under which European transplant activities are organised, and it cooperates with many transplant organisations to structure and streamline these activities in Europe and across the world.

ESOT represents an exceptional opportunity for the transplantation community to share and debate opinions and to develop a European identity in the scientific, therapeutic, and ethical domains. Several Organ Expert Sections within ESOT represent expert knowledge on the respective organs and areas of expertise. At the heart of ESOT is a focus on education and training.

About EPITA

The European Pancreas and Islet Transplant Association (EPITA) is a section of the European Society for Organ Transplantation (ESOT).

The main goal of EPITA is to provide a forum for scientific interaction for those working in the field of pancreas transplantation, islet transplantation, other forms of beta cell replacement therapy, biomaterials or insulin therapy as alternative or related to transplantation.

During EPITA meetings senior and young clinicians and investigators come together to exchange scientific information and views related to current and future beta cell replacement therapy in light of current best practises using insulin therapy.
